

The Centre for Language Studies (CLS) of the Radboud University organizes

Going Romance XXXVII
November 30 & December 1st, 2023
Nijmegen, The Netherlands

Plenary talks:

Olaf Koenenman (Radboud University):
Pro drop and the morphological structure of inflection

Christoph Gabriel (University of Mainz):
*Learning Romance languages in the context of heritage bilingualism:
interfaces and extra-linguistic factors*

Thematic discussion session:

Silvia Terenghi (Utrecht University)
Heritage languages and linguistic theory: The view from Romance morphosyntax

The scope of the conference series can be defined as the contribution of data and insights from the Romance languages to linguistic theories. There are no specific further requirements as to the topic, the subdiscipline, the approach or the methodology, as long as it is clear how the Romance data contribute to modelling linguistic theories of human language.

For previous editions of Going Romance you can consult <https://going-romance.wp.hum.uu.nl/>.

Every researcher working on Romance linguistics is cordially invited to submit an abstract. Please send an anonymous abstract (maximally 1 as author and 1 as co-author) to:
goro2023@ru.nl.

Your abstract should be written in English and be no longer than two pages, including references and examples, with margins of at least 2.5 cm (1 inch), font size 12, single spaced. The abstract should be sent as an e-mail attachment in both PDF and Word format. Attach a separate file containing: title, author's name and address, affiliation and e-mail address.

Abstract submission: September 10, 2023

Notification: October 1st, 2023

Organizing committee: Janine Berns & Haike Jacobs